

BAUHINIA MEXICANA

This large semi-evergreen shrub or medium-sized tree is native to Mexico. Mature plantings will range from 10 to 18 feet in height and 15 to 26 feet in width. From mid summer until late fall, it is adorned with delicate white flowers that fade to pink. The bright green leaves have a cleft at the tip. It should be planted in full sun to part shade and provided moderate irrigation. This species is reportedly more salt tolerant than most other species of Bauhinia. Hardy to 15° F. USDA Zone 8.
