

CONVOLVULUS CNEORUM BUSH MORNING GLORY

Bush Morning Glory is a sprawling shrubby evergreen perennial. It forms a silvery mound of soft silky foliage to 12-24 inches tall and spreading to 3 feet wide. Showy white morning glory blossoms appear from late spring to early summer. Plant in full sun or part shade. This plant even tolerates reflected heat exposures, and is often planted in roadway medians. This plant is susceptible to rotting out, so a well-drained soil is essential. Even in ideal conditions it tends to be short-lived. Bush Morning Glory works well in rock gardens, containers, foreground plantings, and in exposed locations. It is cold hardy to 15° F. USDA Zone 8.

AT A GLANCE SUMMARY
SIZE (H X W)	1-2 feet x 3 feet
FLOWER COLOR	White
FLOWER SEASON	Spring - Summer
EXPOSURE	Full sun, part shade
WATER	Low, extra summer water
GROWTH RATE	Fast
HARDINESS	15° F, USDA Zone 8
PRUNING	Cut back in fall

SHRUBS