

ROSMARINUS OFFICINALIS 'TUSCAN BLUE'

This aromatic herb is native to the Mediterranean, and this selection has a stiff, upright habit. The dark green leaves are extremely fragrant and may be used for cooking. Lavender-blue flowers are produced throughout the year, especially in spring and fall attracting numerous bees. All rosemary plants thrive in full sun, but require good drainage for best performance. An occasional problem with spittlebug can be eliminated with high pressure sprays of water.
